A: This is probably because you have more than one version of python installed. Since one of them is probably already the default, you need to set python to be the default version to be used by conda. First, search for both python files and delete them if they are not part of the default conda installation. Then try running the command, again. python --version The nature of the relationship between channel disturbance and increased skeletal muscle stimulation in the presence of a 4bc0debe42
