didReceiveMemoryWarning causing CoreData save: Failed to create persistent store coordinator I have an app which is designed to work offline only.
It saves to a local database in a SQLite file. In iOS8, I receive the following error: `-[__NSSQLiteConnection sqlite3_step_reset]: message sent to deallocated instance 0x1d0950` The error occurs after calling: `-(void)applicationDidBecomeActive:(UIApplication *)application { if(application.applicationState == UIApplicationStateInactive || application.applicationState == UIApplicationStateBackground) { self.isLoading = YES; [self loadSqliteFromFile:self.databasePath]; } }` The entire CoreData stack: My application's background mode is set to When the app starts, if the persistent store coordinator has not been created, the application creates the persistent store coordinator in `applicationDidFinishLaunching`. In iOS8 the `didReceiveMemoryWarning` message is firing during the loading process. I am calling `saveContext:` in my own `dealloc` method. A: I found the answer in the comments in the code. The problem was that I was not setting the persistent store coordinator in `didFinishLaunchingWithOptions`. In iOS8, I am setting the persistent store coordinator in the app delegate's `applicationDidBecomeActive` method. `-(void)applicationDidBecomeActive:(UIA`
